

Invitation – Saturday September 14 - Potgieterstraat 41 in Eindhoven

New English-speaking Masonic Lodge in the Heart of Brainport

Are you a free thinker who enjoys engaging in conversations with others without rushing to judgment? Do you like contributing to a more livable world? Do you sometimes ponder the meaning of life and are you open to symbolism as a source of inspiration for your thoughts? Then Freemasonry might be of interest for you.

Freemasonry has no dogmas and respects that you follow your own path in life. A masonic lodge provides a space where people from different walks of life engage in meaningful conversations, seeking answers about the meaning of life, and how to make a practical difference in the world. It's not about discovering a singular truth but rather exploring a multitude of perspectives. In this quest, Freemasons draw inspiration from ancient symbols and rituals, which offer a timeless framework for bringing together individuals with diverse viewpoints. Initiations support personal development, fostering growth and self-awareness. Freemasons are committed to self-reflection, approaching others without judgment, and striving to make the world a better place. A Freemason opposes division and actively seeks unity.

On September 14th, the Eindhoven lodges - including five men's lodges, one women's lodge, and one mixed lodge- are hosting an open day. Interested individuals are welcome to visit between 11:00 AM and 3:00 PM at the lodge building at Potgieterstraat 41 in Eindhoven. During the event, members from the various lodges will be available for personal introductions, sharing their experiences, providing information and answering any questions. Visitors will also have the opportunity to explore the Masonic Temple Hall and experience its unique atmosphere.

You are more than welcome!
